Specialized Subject Area Matching Example

Life Sciences
- A paper in Cell Biology will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Cell Biology, not by a specialist in Life Sciences.
- A paper in Biomedical Engineering will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Biomedical Engineering, not by a specialist in Life Sciences.
- A paper in Molecular Biology will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Molecular Biology, not by a specialist in Life Sciences.
- A paper in Food Sciences will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Food Sciences, not by a specialist in Life Sciences.
- A paper in Cancer Research will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Cancer Research, not by a specialist in Life Sciences.

Physical Sciences and Engineering
- A paper in Electrical Engineering will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Electrical Engineering, not by a specialist in Physical Sciences and Engineering.
- A paper in Computer Science will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Computer Science, not by a specialist in Physical Sciences and Engineering.
- A paper in Mechanical Engineering will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Mechanical Engineering, not by a specialist in Physical Sciences and Engineering.
- A paper in Chemical Engineering will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Chemical Engineering, not by a specialist in Physical Sciences and Engineering.

Economics and Business
- A paper in Economics will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Economics, not by a specialist in Economics and Business.
- A paper in Marketing will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Marketing, not by a specialist in Economics and Business.
- A paper in Finance will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Finance, not by a specialist in Economics and Business.
- A paper in Management will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Management, not by a specialist in Economics and Business.

The Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences
- A paper in Sociology will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Sociology, not by a specialist in The Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences.
- A paper in Political Science will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Political Science, not by a specialist in The Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences.
- A paper in Educational technology will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Educational technology, not by a specialist in The Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences.
- A paper in Transportation will be edited by an editor who is a PhD in Transportation, not by a specialist in The Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences.

Medical/Clinical Sciences
- A paper in Hematology will be edited by an editor who is a MD in Hematology, not by a specialist in Medical/Clinical Sciences.
- A paper in Oncology will be edited by an editor who is a MD in Oncology, not by a specialist in Medical/Clinical Sciences.
- A paper in Cardiology will be edited by an editor who is a MD in Cardiology, not by a specialist in Medical/Clinical Sciences.
- A paper in Psychiatry will be edited by an editor who is a MD in Psychiatry, not by a specialist in Medical/Clinical Sciences.
- A paper in Neurology will be edited by an editor who is a MD in Neurology, not by a specialist in Medical/Clinical Sciences.